

The current rules are in place for the public's interest. This is supposed to be a democracy, therefore the voices of the people should be listened to. Keep the current rules as they are, and don't give any additional favor to private interests.